How is it possible that four years can pass so quickly and yet leave each of us with enough memories to last a lifetime? From the first day of school to the last, each day provides an adventure, something to remember. Who could forget their high school prom, having a locker in the dungeon or attending their favorite sporting event? We are each shaped as individuals by these memories, or footprints on our lives and we are never the same. But more importantly, we will remember the people that came into our lives, left footprints on our hearts, and changed us forever.

- 1 Matt Martin and Justin Ducharme get festive.
- 2 Kyla Sullivan, Kristen Oslebo, Sarah Anderson, Amy Lambert, and Stephanie Isenberg chill in the cafe.
- 3 A circle of friends: Katelyn Rooney, Jess Clark, Laura Fyfe, Michelle Felix, Meg LaFlamme, Jenelle Pope and Jacki Cadoret.
- 4 Hmm... wonder what's making Greg Meyer, Mike Faucher, Will Salter, Jim Shannon and Ted Ludwig smile?

1 Remember this? Freshman Year Homecoming Parade with the decades theme! Go 60's!

2 Andy Johnson shows his stuff off by modeling his new bathing suit.

4 Cyndi Krikorian, Kyle Coffey, Jeremiah Hawley, Sarah Politz, Greg Schrank, Julie Anderson, Jess Bernard, Katie Elmes and Liz Woodruff take a break from their instruments to catch the action of the football players.

5 Sara Toupin, Jamie O'Coin, Kayte Horan, Elena Sanchez, and Pre Arell show their friendship between classes.

6 Ashley Sobol, Lindsay Villareal, and Krissie Smollin have Jungle Fever as they get ready to party like animals at Homecoming Junior year.

FOOTPRINTS

ON OUR LIVES

A Step Ahead

We've taken many steps in the past four years leaving footprints on our lives to remember forever. Who would think that we were once freshmen, getting lost on the first day of high school, or sophomores taking the mandatory MCAS, or juniors attending their very own prom?

As seniors, we've displayed more spirit in the past year than we ever have before. Because of this we have created a year full of footprints that will be left on our hearts forever. From riding the bus to donating our caps and gowns we've grown into something to remember: the Class of 2003.

FOOTPRINTS

ON OUR LIVES

Small Steps

The future of Wachusett is the underclassmen. They make up the majority of the student body, which is the life of Wachusett. Underclassmen are present at all events and take pride in their class. Each class has their own student government and has the opportunity to participate in class trips.

Over time the underclassmen learn to leave their backpacks in their lockers and begin to embody the true Mountaineer Spirit. Soon they will be the seniors, but not quite yet. Their presence at Wachusett leaves footprints on everyone; faculty, students and school.

ON OUR LIVES

Guiding Footsteps

Wachusett would not be complete without the administration and the faculty. Our teachers prepare us for our future by teaching us what we need to know to live our lives. The administration reminds us that rules exist everywhere and that dress codes can actually be implemented.

No one will forget their favorite teacher, field trip or academic activity. Teachers provide the opportunity for students to travel and advise the various clubs. Together, the students and the faculty create the spirit of Wachusett that leaves footprints on the lives of all who attend.

Administration

Dear Members of the Class of 2003:

I want to take this opportunity to extend my very best wishes to each and every member of the Class of 2003. You have attended Wachusett Regional High School during a very trying time in the history of our school. Your high school years have been marked by a struggle within our communities regarding a plan to replace our aging facility. This conflict has called the very region upon which our school is based into question. The recent decision to rebuild Wachusett appears to have put this matter to rest and will preserve our regional high school for generations to come.

Despite the struggle that adults have had regarding our school, it is my hope that you have had a productive and positive four years at Wachusett. The Class of 2003 has made a number of contributions to our school. You have shown positive leadership and school spirit, and it has been my pleasure to be your principal. I hope that you have taken from our school as much as you have given to it.

Once again, my best to each of you. Good luck in all that you do.

Sincerely,

Day In The Life of a Teacher

Every morning at 4:30 am, Ms. Leschke gets up to begin her day. As her afternoons and weekends are spent correcting papers (her least favorite part of teaching), working out, going to the ballet, going to restaurants, or gardening with her husband, the morning is her time to relax. A Wachusett graduate herself, Ms. Leschke would be a full time student again if she could make a career of it. The positive energy that is evident in her teaching style today, and has been for fourteen years, was once solely directed towards her love for being a student. Always enjoying english as a kid, Ms. Leschke was influenced to be a teacher by her Junior High School teachers Mrs. Marois and Mrs. Moryl. However, her mother is her biggest influence. Says Ms. Leschke, "She was my first teacher, and will be my last teacher; she always pushed me."

For thirty years and counting, Mr. Farley has taught U.S. History and government to all ages. Having spent the past eighteen years here at WRHS, Mr. Farley has managed to keep himself busy. From correcting papers to coaching swimming to officiating college football and soccer to spending time outside with his family, he loves it all. For Mr. Farley, each year of teaching brings something new - "new challenges, new kids - it keeps you fresh," he says. In all his teaching experience, Mr. Farley will never forget when a class, after deciding that they wanted to go on a field trip to Hawaii, came in wearing everything from grass skirts to coconut tops. After convincing Mr. Farley that he should take them to Hawaii, the students paraded downstairs and were able to get Dr. P. to allow them to go.

As a child, Ms. Finkelstein began doing 4-H demonstrations in front of judges. It was then that she knew she wanted to teach. And teach she has for seventeen years. Throughout the year, Ms. Fink helps to inspire students to find their passions, make career choices, gain knowledge about health and the body - the list is endless. Although she knows she can be "a thorn in people's side" when she is looking out for the best interest of her students, Ms. Fink believes that the students are important, as is evident in her teaching style. One of her many memorable moments is when her Junior Health class was learning about birth control. "Just as I took out a condom to begin a class discussion," says Ms. Fink, "the superintendent came in to wish everyone a Happy Holiday!"

Growing up in Colombia, Señora Morgan began speaking Spanish at a very young age. Although very smart, she often did not try as hard as she could have in high school. One day, however, her father mentioned to her that in order to do what she wanted to do in life, she would have to get better grades. From then on, Sra. Morgan began to work much harder, eventually going to Middlebury College for her B.A. and to Worcester State for her M.Ed. Although not initially a teacher,

Sra. Morgan was influenced by her parents to eventually become one. Sra. Morgan's father had always loved learning and words and had always wanted to be a teacher himself. Her mother was very theatrical and loved literature. Since becoming a teacher, she has learned a lot from the students, especially about herself. "I discovered energy I never knew I had," says Sra. Morgan. "I also discovered that I need to be surrounded by the variety of people we have here at WRHS."

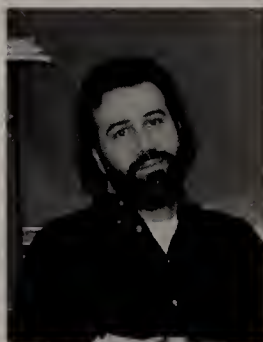

One of the only teachers to have students for four years, Ms. Jensen loves what she does. "The best part about teaching," says Ms. Jensen, "is the kids; as a teacher you share what you know with the students and yet the students always give back so much more - it's like a family." Although Ms. Jensen received a "Who's Most Likely To Be A Teacher" award in high school, throughout college Ms. Jensen thought that she wanted to perform. However, twenty-four years later, Ms. Jensen could hardly imagine doing anything else. One day, she received a letter from a former student. In the letter the student stated that although she wanted to become a doctor, her family did not think that she should. The student remembered, however, a very important piece of advice that Ms. Jensen had once given her: always do what you want to do and don't let anything stop you. Based on this advice, the student had decided to follow her dream. It was here Ms. Jensen realized the impact teachers can and do have on their students. "Nothing is black and white," says Ms. Jensen. Through teaching she has come to find that there are no simple right or wrong answers in the world, but that each situation depends on the individual who walks through the door.

Although originally starting out in Early Childhood Education, Ms. Seremeth has found that working at the high school level as a one-on-one interpreter is as much fun as other ages if not more so. On an average day, Ms. S., as students fondly call her, works one-on-one with and interprets for a student in the life skills program. She also assists any students who need her help. Through teaching, Ms. S. has learned that she "can make a difference by being caring, consistent, and persistent. She has also learned that sometimes the best way to help a student is not by "holding their hand," but by simply guiding them. One of the aspects of teaching that Ms. S. values most is "seeing students use what you've taught them - independently." Outside of school, Ms. S. always has something to do. Some of her favorite things include caring for her grandparents, carpentry, landscpaing, being with her Golden Retrievers, kayaking, spending time with friends, and so much more!

An English teacher of nine years, Mr. Tarmey's love of literature and sharing this knowledge with young people is evident. Starting at 6:45 in the morning when he arrives at school, Mr. Tarmey begins preparing, grading papers and getting done anything else that he hasn't finished the night before. Although many students believe that teachers have it easy, getting two prep periods a day, Mr. Tarmey knows otherwise. On average, he says, he works on school work until 8:00 p.m. each night and for six hours on the weekends. Even with this busy schedule, however, Mr. Tarmey makes sure to read at least one short story a day. This, he says, "keeps me alert and in an analytical frame of mind." His compassion for his students comes through in his belief that "the best part about teaching is having a classroom discussion and being privileged enough to watch people becoming aware of something they didn't get before."

As everyone knows Mr. Baer is humorous, intelligent, a good teacher, and has always wanted to be a cowboy. If you walk through the halls and ask students about him, they will tell you that Mr. Baer is one of the best teachers Wachusett has to offer. They will also tell you that when Mr. Baer retires at the end of the 2003 school year, he will be greatly missed. After thirty-nine to forty years of teaching (depending on who you ask), Mr. Baer has had the opportunity to do everything from taking camping trips in Acadia National Park to working with a biological science curriculum study, in which he had the chance to write a few books. The philosophies he learned through this have shaped the way Mr. Baer has taught. Through teaching, Mr. Baer has also learned that he is capable and that he has something to offer to students. In his mind, the perfect student is the one who doesn't give up. Says Mr. Baer, the perfect student is he or she who gets "knocked down but stands back up and tries again."

An active person herself, Ms. Aldrich is the perfect fit for her job. Always a jock and a morning person, being a phys. ed. teacher has allowed Ms. A. the chance to get up earlier, exercise with her students, and influence a younger generation. In the summer, her days often consist of getting up early, going for a run, and working outside for most of the day. Ms. Aldrich has been bringing her great energy into her gym classes for about twenty years. From getting kids into shape in aerobic class to joining in the fun with her Freshmen classes, Ms. Aldrich enjoys what she does. In her opinion, it is great to not only be able to teach young people the importance of cardio vascular training, muscular training, flexibility and nutrition, but it is also wonderful to work with what Ms. A. considers "one of the best age groups." For her, it is incredibly rewarding when a kid unexpectedly comes up to say "thank you" for helping them in some way.

A graduate of WRHS (class of '63), Mr. Larson has been teaching for thirty-six years, nineteen of which have been at Wachusett. As a student, Mr. Larson was a shy athlete. He skipped third grade and thus was shorter and younger than other students in his grade. Now, when he's not teaching math, Mr. Larson likes to spend time with his family, go water skiing and go to school events. His health is another very important thing to Mr. Larson. He watches his diet, lifts weights three times a week, does three hundred crunches a day and walks two miles a day. When it comes to teaching, Mr. Larson has done everything from sharing his endless knowledge with many students to saving a girl's life on a fieldtrip by performing CPR. However, the best parts about teaching are "seeing the light come on in kids' heads - seeing recognition, seeing kids believe in themselves and having kids come back after graduation," says Mr. Larson.

Raising the Bar

Stepping out in Education: Wachusett Regional High School's National Honor Society

Service...Character...Leadership...Scholarship...What do all of these add up to? An NHS inductee! On January 7, 2003 Wachusett's chapter of the National Honor Society inducted fifty-nine new members. Speeches were given by Liz Scales, Nikki Ledger, Cyndi Krikorian, and Julie Anderson to recognize the inductees' accomplishments. Mr. Baer, the chosen guest speaker, spoke words of encouragement. Many came in support of the new and present members.

On November 22, 2002 Wachusett's chapter of the National Honor Society sponsored their semi-annual Red Cross blood drive. So many students volunteered to donate blood this year that the Red Cross staff could not handle everyone in one day. Members of the chapter supported the donors by serving juice and cookies and chatting with the donors. Through the blood drive, Wachusett students were able to leave footprints on the lives of many.

Magic Memories

*The Steps of Our Past and Present Lead to
Our Future: Madrigal Dinner and Principal's Day*

Wachusett's Grammy award winning music department presented their annual Elizabethan Madrigal dinner at St. Mary's Hall in Jefferson from January 30th until February 1st. This year's performance was "Snow White and the 17 Dwarfs" written and performed by the Singers and Chamber Choir. Guests enjoyed a seven course meal while also listening to music performed by the Wind Ensemble and Orchestra.

Who's our best pal?...Dr. P of course! Student council helped to make Dr. P's Principal's Day one that he would always remember. Not only did they decorate his office with balloons and Sponge Bob decorations, but they also bought him a new mini-fridge. For part of the day, Dr. P had a special guest. This guest, a clown, entertained Dr. P and students alike. Thanks for a great ten years as principal, Dr. P!

Beyond WRHS

Walk Abouts: Deca, Model UN, Florida, Costa Rica, Echo, and English and Spanish Class Field Trips up to 2003

As many students would agree, field trips add some excitement to the daily life at Wachusett Regional High School. Be it to another country or just down the street, a day away is always welcome. These outings are a time to explore events that, in one way or another, enrich a student's educational experience. Last year, students in the Costa Rica Exchange Club traveled to Costa Rica for two weeks. This year students have taken an English outing to see the play Breath, Boom, gone to Washington D.C. with Model U.N. experienced Disney with the Music Department, competed with DECA, tasted Spanish cuisine and inspected Hispanic art in Boston, explored New York City and so much more. Students walk away from these outings with smiles on their faces and memories that make their education more real.

Societary Debut

Stepping Up in the World: A Partnership with the Boston Symphony and Hosting Evangelidis and Bunker For a Debate

On October, two former Wachusett grads returned to WRHS for a campaign debate. Lew Evangelidis, class of '79, and David Bunker, class of '89, focused their forum on issues of student interest, such as the MCAS, legalization of marijuana, and bilingual education. Challenging questions came from Echo editor, Meghann Ackerman. The student audience was respectful, though some felt the issues were inadequately addressed.

The recently established partnership with the Boston Symphony Orchestra promises to enhance Wachusett's award-winning music department by allowing students to see the BSO live and working with well-accomplished musicians. WRHS students are taking another step in developing their musicianship. Band director Miriam Jensen says, "It's a chance of a lifetime for our students and faculty... it's fabulous."

Stepping Between Nations: International Night and Foreign Language Honor Societies Induction Ceremony

On November 21, 2002, Wachusett held its annual international night. At the event were students and faculty from each of Wachusett's four languages. Students tested out their talents with Karaoke, dancing, and stand-up comedy. The cafeteria staff served food from Mexico, Italy and China. The night had foreign language students remarking "wunderbar," "excelente," "magnifique," and "optime."

In October of 2002, high-achieving foreign language students were inducted into each foreign language honor society. The students were recognized for their excellence in Latin, German, French, and Spanish. Each language added a special cultural touch to make the international ceremony a meaningful, inspiring night.

Testing the Field

Stepping into the field of Science: The 2003 Wachusett Regional High School's Annual Science Fair

The science hallway, besides that funky science smell, is usually a pretty calm place. On the night of February 25, 2003, however, each room was buzzing with students, teachers, judges, and visitors. On this night, Wachusett held their 48th annual science fair with thirty-one student exhibitors. Freshmen, Sophmores, and Juniors showed up to present their projects. Unfortunately no Seniors participated this year.

Topics ranged from physical science and technology, biology, chemistry, computer science, and math. Judges included members of the community, science professors, and former science seminar students. Twelve students were selected to move on to the regional competition at WPI. As was obvious by the looks of the projects and the smiles on the judges' faces, everyone did an outstanding job.

Serving Our Country

Stepping up to serve: Mr. Christopher Brewer temporarily leaves the world of math to fulfill a civic duty in the world beyond.

Although he is a math teacher with a new baby, Mr. Brewer is not at home grading papers or enjoying the joys of fatherhood. Called up in February of 2003, Mr. Brewer has courageously gone to fight in the war against terrorism. Now serving in the Middle East, Mr. Brewer continues to serve our country in the best way that he knows how. We at WRHS honor him and all other WRHS graduates who are now serving our country. We hope for everyone's safe return home to our welcoming community.

A Step Ahead

WRHS & Beyond

Students' success extends beyond the walls of Wachusett. Students are involved in clubs that not only benefit the school but also impact the community. Best Buddies cements friendships between special education students and club members. Both students learn from each other and treasure the planned activities such as going to the Celtics games and the festive parties. Extending help throughout the Wachusett Community, Mountaineer Volunteers provide service to WRHS and beyond. The members rake leaves for senior citizens, volunteer at local homeless shelters and plan the annual Senior Citizens Prom. Echo editors are the master minds behind the school newspaper that informs the faculty and students about current events in and out of school. For its excellence in journalism, each edition is featured in the Landmark. Besides lending a hand to the school, these clubs allow students to work together with common interests in mind and become friends. Through hard work and dedication, these groups keep WRHS and the rest of the world connected.

Fun & Games

*Fun-

The amusing side of Wachusett focuses on fun and games. The highly recognized Drama Club encourages student actors to continue to provide WRHS and the community with wonderful theatrical productions. Besides improving their acting abilities, Drama members have the opportunity to travel to such places as London to enjoy and learn more about the global theatre scene. Music lovers involved in the Guitar Club use it as an outlet to improve their talents. Brand new to the endless number of clubs is sailing, which just this year has attracted a number of students. Beginner and expert sailors are presented with the opportunity to improve their nautical skills after school at Regetta Point. The Frisbee Club has become a well recognized club through their creative and entertaining announcements that wake students up in the morning. This club allows students to develop a loved pastime into a competitive game. Regardless of what club a student decides to join, Wachusett offers a club that fits everyone's individual interests. A little bit of fun is needed after a long day of school!

Not only does the Drama Club provide quality entertainment- the burgers are unbelievable!

Another Step to the Side

Fun & Games

Students' stress can be eliminated with even more of Wachusett's exciting, fun-filled clubs. Bowes Gallery, located next to the main entrance, adds shimmer and spunk to the halls of Wachusett. It's a bright spot in everyone's day, from paintings and drawings to sculptures and models, it attracts the eyes of anyone passing by. The Media Center Club members spend their free time in the library organizing books, helping fellow students with research, and making sure the library runs smoothly.

The Echo Graphics Editors make the school newspaper pleasing to the eye. They work together with the journalists to enhance the articles through illustrations and cartoons. A timeless game that continues to attract students is chess. The Chess Club encourages students to better their skills while competing among friends. Competition extends beyond Wachusett, students have performed exceptionally well at regional games. These and the other gaming clubs help involve Wachusett students. Fun is essential at any age!

Whos that? Nikki Leger covers her eyes with some cool shades while Lauren Grenache laughs along.

Education

Education doesn't only happen at Wachusett from 7:40 to 2:15, but after hours as well. Many Wachusett students take "the extra step" and expand upon what they learn in their everyday classes. Science Seminar participants show their great interest in science at the annual Science Fair and DECA members use their business skills at competitions throughout the year. Model UN students debate wordly issues and travel to such places as Washington D.C. to better their understanding of the international community. Students in Peer Ed, International Club and Humanities Scholars Collaborative share their passion about education with one another as well as with students in other schools. These clubs provide students with the chance to further studies in various fields while learning from the other people involved. Through these adventures, students are able to increase their knowledge of the world and of themselves. Students who have taken these "extra steps" value educational experiences outside of class which will help guide them to success in the future.

Steppin' to the Beat

Band

The Music Department is nationally recognized as a Grammy Signature School because of its dedicated students and faculty. Bands and choruses work hard to perfect their music and improve their abilities. Band offers students of different instrumentation to come together and make music. In addition to concerts, the band performs at football games, Madrigal Dinner, the MICCA festival and graduation. Besides these events, some students pursue music through additional performances, including Quabbin

Valley Music Festival, Central Districts and Massachusetts All-State Band. Students also join smaller musical groups to perfect their talents. Different instruments offer small ensembles like the Bell Choir, Flute Choir, and Percussion Ensemble where students are able to work with one another and an advisor on one particular instrument. The hard work of each band student pays off when the entire ensemble can play beautiful music together. The sounds of all of the instruments ring throughout the school and community.

Steppin' to the Beat

Chorus

Beautiful voices echo from inside the choral room here at Wachusett. The choruses are a main component to our Grammy Signature Music Department. Many students involved in chorus also participate in the Quabbin Valley Music Festival, Central Districts and even Massachusetts All-State Choir. The choirs are well-known for their annual production of Madrigal Dinner, in which the audience is taken back to an Elizabethan time to celebrate an evening of music, food and merriment. The Music Department also offers students smaller groups to belong to besides large ensembles. Brother's Sing On features an all male choir which performs wonderful music and entertainment. The barbershop quartet, Big Tom's All Stars, won a first place award in recognition for their magnificent performance. To counter the boys, this year the girls started an all female choir known as Melodies. Singing can be heard all around Wachusett and the community arising from all of these lovely voices.

World Steppin'

Societies

Wachusett's societies honor the students who have excelled in various academic fields. Besides meeting Wachusett requirements in the core curriculum, these students dedicate themselves to their studies. La société honoraire de Français (French), Delta Epsilon Phi (German), National Junior Classical League Latin Honor Society (Latin), and La Sociedad Honoraria Hispanica (Spanish), recognize students that have shown outstanding success in foreign language. National Honor Society acknowledges students who display the qualities of scholarship, leadership, character, and community service as well as being recommended by teachers. National Honor Society students complete a service project each month and coordinate Wachusett's semi-annual blood drives. To celebrate their hard work, all NHS members are invited on an annual field trip to enjoy a well deserved day off. Although all of these society members work very hard and show their dedication, they manage to find some time for fun too!

FOOTPRINTS

ON OUR LIVES

Steppin' Out

Student life activities begin the very first day of school and carry throughout the year until the last day. Not only are special events such as Homecoming, Volleyball Marathon and Prom included, but the aspects unique to Wachusett are present also. Throughout the years, students hear parking lot stories, unusual nicknames and cafeteria stories. Students also have many experiences in their daily lives that are included, such as interesting locker moments. The memories created during student life activities are ones to remain with us forever.

On May 4, 2002, if you happend to peek in the Four Points Sheraton in Leominster, you would have seen members of the class of '03 dancing the night away. Students enjoyed the great food at the buffet and funky music while spending some time with their friends away from the books. But as the night came to an end and the balloons began to deflate, students walked away with a few more high school memories that left footprints on their hearts.

Ladies night! Girls of the class of '03 get down at the dance.

The day of Junior Prom, May 4, 2002, was filled with primping, smiles, and dancing the night away.

Spirit Week

Wachusett kicked off Homecoming with themed days to display school spirit during the week of September 23-27, 2002, which led to the pep rally.

Packed wall to wall, the sophomores cheer their loudest, competing against the other classes' volumes.

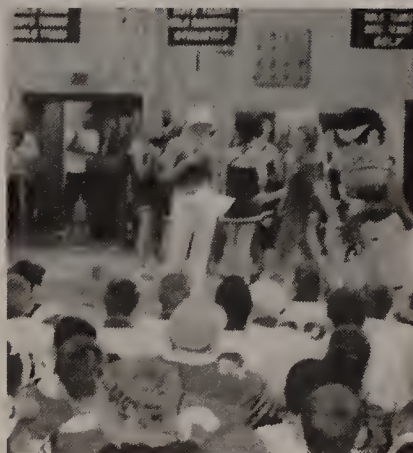

Despite the class of 2003's lazy attitude, Wachusett managed to make Spirit Week a success, at least on Pajama Day. During Beach Day, Decades Day, and Mismatch Day, the halls were scattered with sunglasses, bell bottoms, mullets, and plaids. Green and White Day was concluded with the pep rally, once again a chaotic experience decorated with signs, the best of course, "Seniors Rule!"

On September 28, Homecoming week peaked with the annual parade, football game, and a dance. The parade kicked off the day around noon as the seniors cooled down Main St. with their winter theme. The Juniors fell in line with their theme of fall, the Sophmores sailed on towards summer, and the Freshmen buzzed down the street with a spring theme. Although the Seniors gave it their all and rocked the crowd with their "Brrr. . . its cold in here" song and dance, the "artistic" Juniors once again beat them out and took first prize. The day continued with the football game. Wachusett took on Westboro this year, but unfortunately the Mountaineers did not end up on top. Homecoming Week was wrapped up with a dance in the school's gym on Saturday night. Everyone danced the night away as the seniors enjoyed the last moments of their final Wachusett Homecoming.

Our Town

The fall play presented by Wachusett Regional High School's Theatre Arts Program on November 7 - 10, 2002.

Pat Kopacko drops to his knees and delivers a moving speech to his deceased wife, played by Amy Ghio.

Our Town, directed by Doug Ingalls and produced by Melanie Donegan, featured a vivid performance by the Wachusett cast and crew. This story of small town life was portrayed with dramatic effect and imagination with the minimal use of props and set changes. This production was a success due to the outstanding talents of the cast, production staff, and crew. The characters looked great on stage thanks to the creative skills of the costume committee and hair and make-up staff. Additional acknowledgements go out to Stage Manager Dave Plante, Costumer Mimi Paquette, Technical Director Karl Murwin, and Crew Chief Jennifer Harackiewicz.

Above: Tyler Achilles and Tyler Hauer got ready for the big show with the help of Christina Foss and the make-up crew.

Biggest Footprint

Many of you agreed that there were a few students in this school who stood out because they have changed the way we each are today...or maybe just because they have big feet! Pat Murphy said, "Yeah...and you know what they say about big feet," when he were voted one of the students to leave the biggest footprint on WRHS. Other students have made a difference too. Also nominated was Matt Martain, Jamie O'Coin, Rob Sheppard, and of course Nikki Ledger for student council, student government and just for having a great personality. We could go on and on about what Nikki has done here at Wachusett, but all she had to say was, "Hey...I don't think it's fair to say that I have the biggest feet in this school." Many of her peers agreed that Nikki has spirit! Chances are if you hear someone yelling, "Brick wall, waterfall-Shrewsbury - you think you got it all, you don't, we do. So boom with your attitude!" Nikki won't be far away. Thanks for cheering on WRHS, Nikki!

Right Top: According to students, Nikki Leger leaves a footprint on Wachusett because, "she is a very driven young woman and no matter what she does after school she will be successful and always be remembered."

Right Middle: Senior Matt Martin was voted as leaving the biggest footprint on Wachusett because, "he led us through our first two years of high school as our class President."

Immediate Right: Apart from being the President of the student council here at Wachusett, senior Jamie O'Coin, "does everything for the senior class and is a friend to everyone. She is a genuine and extremely dedicated person."

Right: And then there is Pat Murphy, who was nominated, "because he is tall and has big feet, so thus he would have the biggest footprint."

Left: Talk about male cheerleaders... Wachusett's own Badlands have set the standard for school spirit. "They're at every game and really get the crowd excited."

Below: Who has school spirit? Wachusett athletes, like Mary Kate Cunningham, do! The athletes, "work hard at practice every day and wear Wachusett jerseys to display their school pride."

Most School Spirit

When asked who has the most school spirit, most seniors agreed that Korrie Ferris has displayed true spirit these past four years. "always dressing up and even painting herself green for the pep rally."

Whose got Spirit? Well, many of us here at Wachusett are so school spirited that we walk down the halls singing "On Wachusett," but a few seniors have school spirit unlike any other. If you see Korie Ferris during spirit week, you can bet she'll be dressed in her Pj-gear. But Korie claims, "I'm just high on life." Dave Plante has also been noted for his school spirit. Dave says, "dressing up for school spirit week was amazingly fun." Other students noted for their Wachusett Pride are all of our great athletes and our infamous Badlands. "The other teams can't handle us," says junior Chris Gusha. Here we go green!

Legends of Wachusett

Like all schools, Wachusett has its own set of urban legends, superstitions, and rituals that we will never forget.

Wow...senior Amy Lula shows her surprise to hear the latest secret legend about the school. I wonder if she knows something that we don't?

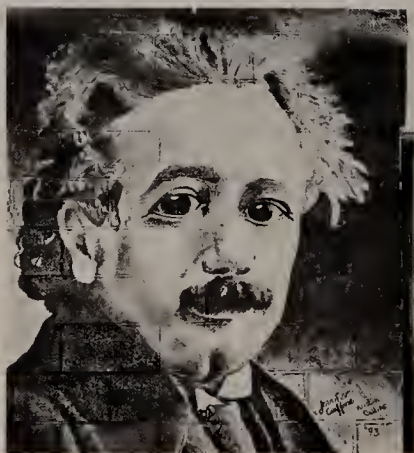

Remember the first day of school freshmen year? Remember some of the stories that have gone through the halls of Wachusett? The pool on the roof and the tunnel system under the school: these are just a few of the legends of Wachusett. What about all of the norms that we have grown accustomed to such as the bottom of the hill, who could ever forget that? What about the tile in front of the lunch cart, or being able to climb into the ceiling through the top of your locker. All the legends of Wachusett will always make us laugh.

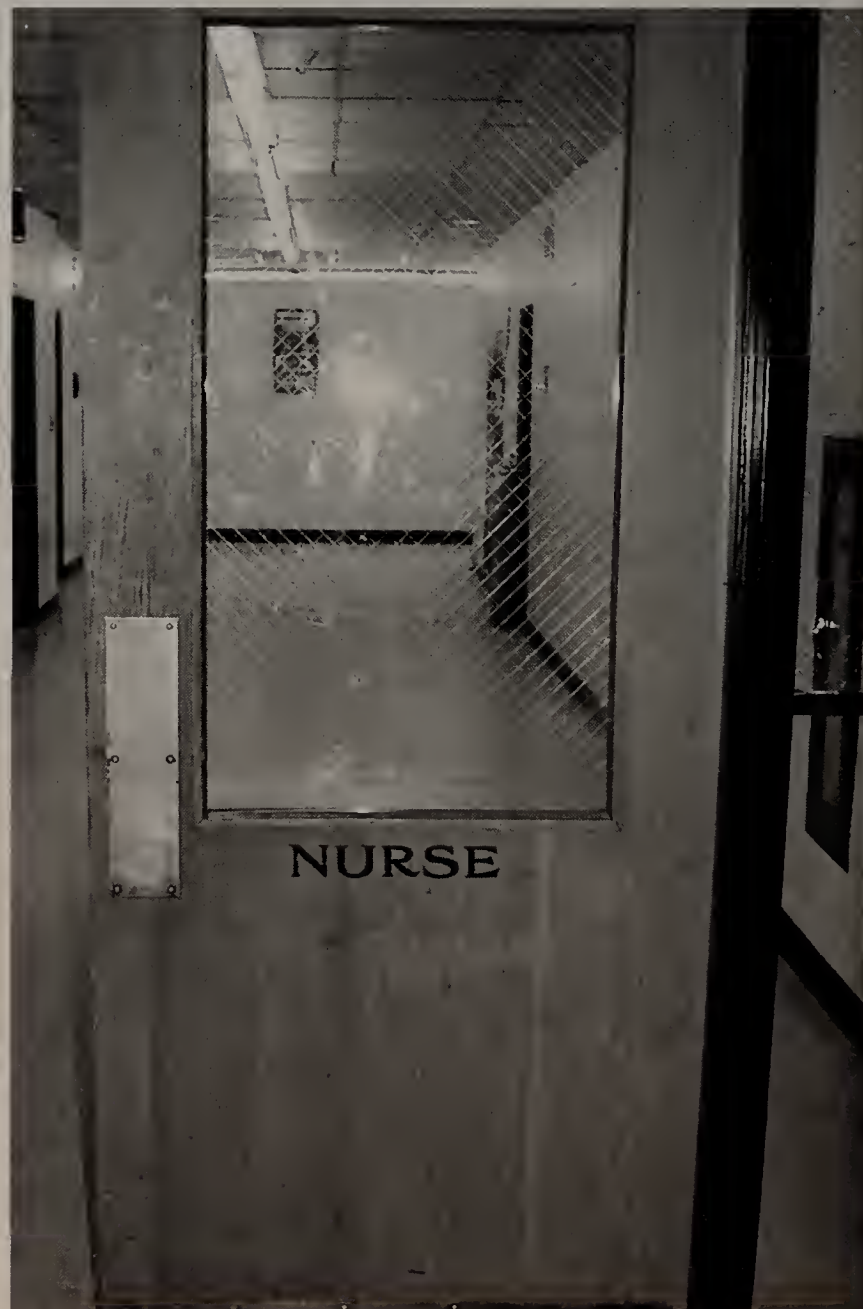

Above: Good thing school is not in session, otherwise all of these students would be in trouble for being over the red line after gym.

Right: What does Albert Einstein have to do with legends of Wachusett? Well... umm... lets just say he is known for having certain images in his hair.

Right: Where is the nurse? Where does this door lead? Have you ever noticed that several of the doors around the school don't go where they say they do? So next time you're in the junior hall, stop by Congress or the Tower of London and say "Hi."

Left: The Mountaineer, the school's infamous mascot, is the butt of many of Wachusett's inside jokes.

Below: Aahh...the elevator, where do we start? If you're tricky enough you can use a dime or a nickel to open the doors and take the elevator to your next class, or maybe up to the fourth floor to use the "swimming pool."

Left: The Glass Staircase is the most used staircase in the school, but beware girls if you're wearing a skirt! Some boys have been known to occasionally look up as they rush to and from class.

Above: Here we have the square in front of the lunch cart. It is Wachusett superstition that if you step on this tile any day except for Friday you will bring all the sports teams bad luck... so be careful next time you're on your way to lunch!

Below: Michele Prunier looks pretty happy to get out of here. Who wouldn't?

Right: A white car always blends in with the snow.

Right: A view from the dash board trying to get out of the parking lot: "I'm ALMOST out of here!"

Left: In a race against the snow, Chris Frickholm cleans off his car so he can jet out of the parking lot.

Below: Jess Ricker and Jen Gerhardt are safe. There are no police here.

The Parking Lot

The infamous Jeep Cherokee of dun... dun... dun... Dustin Hill. Don't you wish you could have a squirt gun attached to your car? Steer Clear!

Well, Dustin Hill does! With a broken windshield washer, his jeep has the ability to squirt those annoying drivers behind him that continuously ride his bumper! Dustin also uses this advantage to entertain the drivers waiting in the parking lot.

Remember that time in the parking lot when... Jess Ricker fit 9 people in her car and passed a bunch of police... Chach made his car fly... Melissa Penney left her lights on during SATs and was stranded when it was cold and rainy... Discovering you mysteriously lost 3 hubcaps... Billy Long raced Jon LaPearl, who was too preoccupied with yelling at Billy to come to a complete stop and hit the car in front of him, then went into reverse and hit Robbie Little behind him... Chris Madden threw a pigskin across the parking lot and it smashed through a car window... Isaiah Grigos drove his truck really fast off the ledge in the parking lot and "almost died."

Cafeteria and Lockers

Grab a bite, grab a book, and get to class!

Chris...wake up! It's time to do some homework.

Hey, what's that smell? Yum...it must be lunch! The caf had a new look this year with brand new round tables and the addition of the new caf. Most seniors were happy with their new eating environment, but were thrown off by the new table setup and changes in the food lines. Hey seniors, get used to a little change...the college caf will probably be a little different without Mrs. Chapin getting you your soft cookie. Now...it's locker time! Much of our day is spent running from class to class, but not without stopping by our home-away-from-home to grab a few books and chat with our friends.

Left: Uh oh...senior Liz Scales seems to be in a bit of a pickle. With the help of Kyle Coffey and Jeremiah Hawley, Liz's lock makes it safely home.

Competition Play

Wachusett's drama department proved their talent at the annual drama festival this year with their performance of "Beyond Tolerance."

Gracious Mary revolves around herself in confusion as the professors drive her to near insanity.

"Beyond Tolerance," written by Alan Haehnal, is a tale about a girl named Gracious Mary Sensible who is abandoned to Burnam University; where all the students are the same. The dean of the school, P.T. Burnam, along with the other students, attempt to convince Gracious Mary to conform to their way of life; however, she finds their life-style too difficult to deal with. This year's play was once again directed by Doug Ingalls and was quite successful. Wachusett's competition play won at the preliminary competition (which our school hosted), and at the semi-finals which allowed them to attend the final competition at the John Hancock building in Boston.

Winter Carnival

This year's Winter Carival took place on February 8, 2003. It was truly a memorable experience for all who attended.

Jen Harackiewicz and Rebecca Roy pull in a John Travolta Saturday Night Fever style...Stayin alive!

Wachusett students celebrated Valentine's Day a little early this year at Winter Carnival. The annual event was held at the Worcester Centrum Centre. The dance was a good time as usual, but had an extra special touch with Club T as our D.J. Everyone rocked to the music while watching music videos and cameo clips of themselves on two giant screens on the dance floor. The party was complete with funky lights and bubbles leaving permanent footprints on our hearts.

Have you ever wondered how those people sitting next to you in class got those creative nicknames? Have you ever known their real names? Well here are a few of the best known nicknames, and how they came about.

Left: "Beeta" Elizabeth Washkevich: "My sister couldn't pronounce my name and she said Liza-beeta, and then it was shortened to 'Beeta!'"

Far Left: "Yappy" Dave Plant: In an effort to avoid humiliation, Mike Carreiro decided to call me 'Yappy' because I talk a lot.

Nicknames: How did you get yours?

Below: Elyse Lavin attacks the cash register at CVS in high hopes of leaving early.

Workin' Overtime

After school and on the weekends Wachusett students work hard to earn some extra cash.

Junior Aline Coeho packs a customer's 'goods' with a friendly grin at Brooks. Great Service!

Car insurance, morning coffee, cell phone bills, clothes, lunches, and dates...How can a high school student afford all this? "Get a job" our parents say, and so we listen. For those of us who have priveleged friends, we can always hope they'll stop by to visit us as we save our dough. What to do on your weekend off?...The possiblities are endless. When the countless trips to the mall and the movies exeed the budget, hanging out at a friend's house quickly ends the boring-plan-blues.

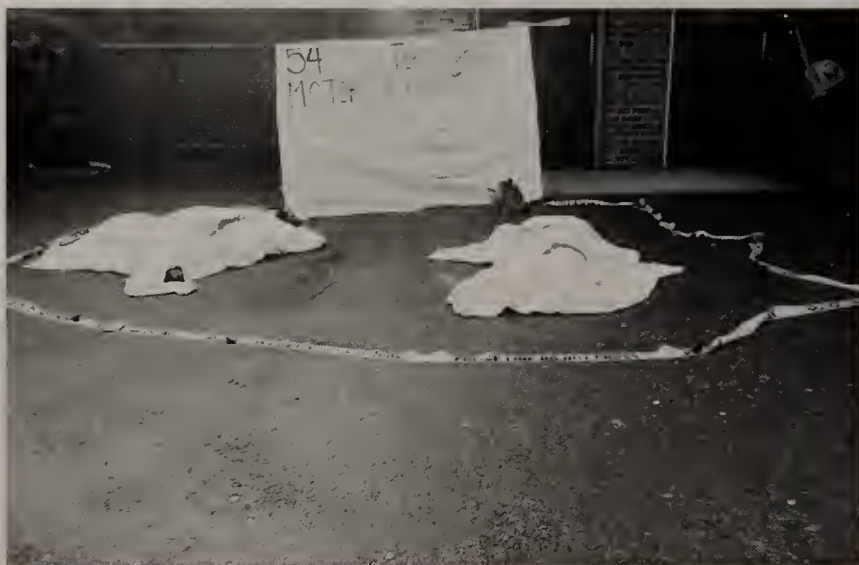

SADD Day

As a hope to stop students from driving drunk on prom night, Wachusett's students set up SADD Day.

Katie Ober and Sarah Blatt tie statistics to three out of every ten lockers in the school.

In America, 3 out of 10 people will be involved in a drunk driving accident at some point in their life. A group of Wachusett students set out to stop students from becoming part of this statistic. Wachusett's pre-prom SADD day tradition took place on May 9th. Members of the Junior class attended an assembly featuring a police officer that encouraged students to think before they act on prom night. Tim Hart also spoke about his personal experience with a drunk driving accident. As students walked to class they noticed the walls that were covered with statistics and powerful messages warning students of the effects of drunk driving.

Above: The display set up outside of the gym entrance to the school warns students that "54% of motor deaths occur on Friday, Saturday or Sunday."

Right: Senior Tim Hart delivered a speech to the Juniors about his alcohol related car accident over the summer.

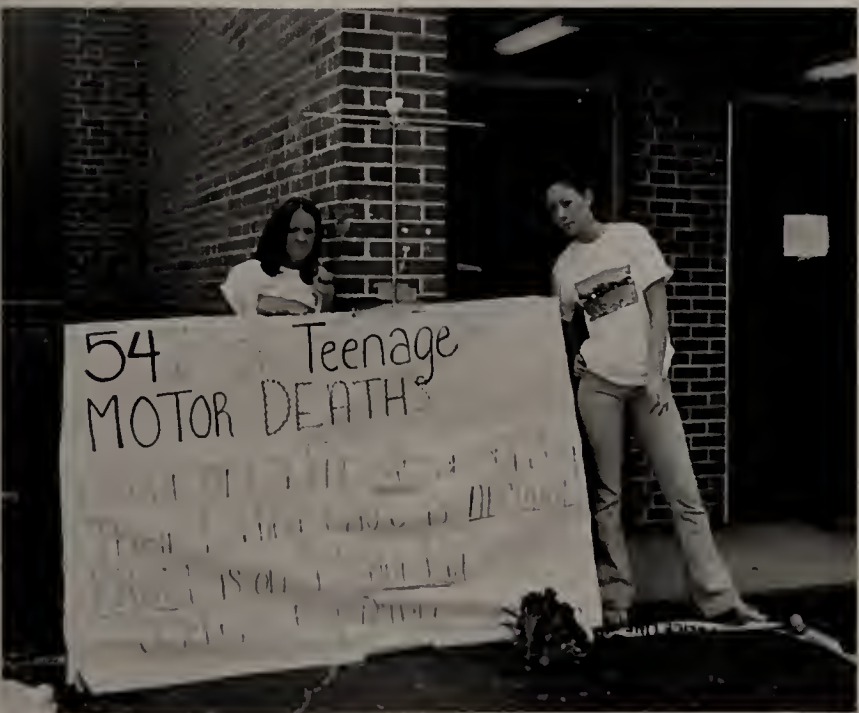

Right: "The whole day went really well overall. We all worked hard and I think we got the message out to most of the students," said SADD Day leader Jamie Blatt.

Left: After the SADD Day events came to a close, the students who organized the event stop for a rest and a quick picture.

Volleyball Marathon

As a Wachusett tradition, the volleyball marathon was held on March 14 and 15, 2003 in the gym.

How high can you jump? Senior Justin Ducharme tries to find out as he awaits the serve from the other team.

Spike it! Wachusett held its annual volleyball marathon in March 2003. Students from every class stayed up all night long and served up tons of volleyball fun. Students organized into teams with their friends and competed against each other. Some teams even made their own "team uniforms" to show off their team spirit. The teams played on until morning and they couldn't bump that ball any more.

South Pacific

Wachusett's Spring musical, Rogers and Hammerstein's "South Pacific," was performed on the stage April 10-13, 2003.

Ooo better cover up quick! The nurses in the show lounge around in their towels before the big dance scene, "I'm gonna wash that man right out-a my hair."

Once again, the theatre department put on an excellent show under the direction of Doug Ingalls and the musical direction of Thomas Nerbonne. The play takes place on two islands in the South Pacific during WWII. The story is about an American nurse who falls in love with a French man she meets on the island. He assists the marines with their radio control on a nearby island where one young marine falls in love with a native but is killed. Despite the trauma, the nurse and Frenchman end up together. Tropical costumes and sets were a great touch to the Island setting. Even the audience left the auditorium singing 'Bali Ha'i.'

50 Day Party

March 5th marked the beginning of the 50-day countdown. Seniors gathered the night before to celebrate the kick-off of this pivotal day.

Say Cheese! Megghan Krozaska and Christine Deforge flash their pearly whites as they enjoy some of the yummy pizza.

And the countdown begins! Seniors gathered for the 50 day party in the caf. to eat pizza, dance, and put their creative skills to work while making the infamous signs for the countdown until the last day of classes. Many seniors added a personal touch to their own posters that would be hung over the doorway to the former senior-caf. Seniors also grooved to the DJ music and inventively scooted around on the trash can-rollers. Everyone had fun hanging out with the friends and reminiscing about the past four years while the reality that our senior year only had 50 days left set in.

Above: Jeremiah Hawley pushes these girls together to make room for himself at the table. "I want to make a poster too!"

Bowes Senior Art Gallery

For Senior art students, the last few weeks of school is the time their artwork is proudly put on display for the school to see.

Bowes Art Gallery's last art exhibit shows off the hard work of all Seniors who are in any level of art class. Good job guys!

As tradition would have it, the last art exhibit of the year in Bowes Art Gallery is an accumulation of artwork that the Seniors have created over the year. The hours spent on each piece are evident by the beautiful display in front of the office. From papier-mache to sculptures to paintings to charcoles, the variety of artwork shows off the different materials Seniors have had the opportunity to work with. The Bowes Senior Art Gallery is a time where all of Wachusett is able to see the talents of the Seniors. Many students choose to be in the art department for four years. Everything they learn comes out for the Senior Gallery.

Acad. Awards & Arts Encore

At the end of each academic school year, students are recognized for their accomplishments at Academic Awards Night and Arts Encore.

Señora Morgan shakes hands with Liz Scales after presenting her with an award for Academic Excellence in Spanish.

Every year students are acknowledged for their hard work at the Academic Awards Night and at Arts Encore. This year, Sergeant Lemuel N. Webb made a special visit to WRHS to award Anthony Antinarelli the Montgomery G.I. Bill Scholarship. State Senator Harriette Chandler also came to present Nicolette A. Schlichting with the Wellesley College Book Award. Many of the awards were given to outstanding foreign language students, and math and science students. At the Arts Encore, the music department, art department, and drama group recognized students who displayed excellence in each area.

Previously Awarded: Cyndi Krikorian and Jen Harackiewicz, earlier in the year, were awarded the Student of the Year Award, an award given by the National Honor Society.
Congratulations!

Senior Hallway

May 22nd...just another day in the Senior Hallway...not quite! The night before groups of Seniors came in to decorate the Senior Hallway with anything they could get their hands on. The hall was draped with streamers while balloons and confetti lined the floor. The hallway had it's own "jungle" complete with green tissue paper trees and "wild animals". Another section of the hallway was decorated as a beach scene with a hammock and a mini-pool. The huge Senior posters at each of the entrances completed the re-decoration. Seniors had a blast re-vamping the boring beige hallway that they walked down each and every weekday.

Mmm...donuts...that's just about the only thing that can drag a Senior back to high school after the last day of classes. On the morning of Thursday, May 22, seniors gathered to walk through the "decorated" Senior Hallway and head to the new caf to have their last meal at the Regional. Seniors enjoyed donuts and bagels, fruit and juice that was generously provided by the Wachusett Area Rotary Club before having a final class meeting about the upcoming fun Senior events. Seniors also received their long-awaited cap and gowns, which would be sported a few weeks later at graduation.

Senior Class Trip

On Friday, May 23rd, members of the class of '03 visited the High Meadows Resort in Connecticut.

Mary Kate Cunningham enjoys a spin on the Gyro-scope. Hope she ate a light breakfast!

Graduation

On June 14, 2003, Wachusett's senior class brought out the sun to make this year's graduation one to remember.

Driving to a destination
Valedictorian Carolyn Brunelle says, "Achieving a goal in life is like driving to a destination- it involves not only acceleration and highways, but also stop lights and detours...one piece of advice: the break is on the left."

The day started off drizzly and dismal, cloudy and unpleasant. The seniors were presented with lemons but made lemonade as they optimistically wished the rain away. With threats of "Be quiet or it will rain," from Dr. P., the seniors refused to jinx the weather. Their good behavior sure paid off, since the weather was so nice that numerous beach balls bounced amid the seniors. Speeches were read, awards distributed, retiring teachers recognized, and then it was the graduates' time to receive diplomas. The day the seniors had been anticipating for four years came and went, leaving some in tears, some with smiles, but all with memories on their hearts and footprints on their lives.

Graduation Speeches

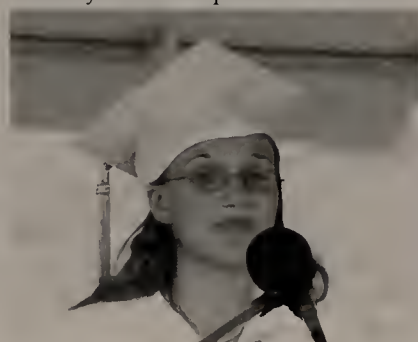

Warning: Falling Coconuts

alutatorian Elizabeth Scales says, "My biggest fear is sharks, but I was told that 'you are more likely to die from a falling coconut than a shark attack.' Whatever fear is trying to work its way into your life, it can be conquered, even if by a falling coconut."

A New Generation

Jillian Volk started by citing JFK and commented that, "We are the next generation JFK speaks of...it's time to grab ahold of our future and run with it. Take your futures in your hands and create for yourselves a name of which you can be proud."

Desire

Julie Anderson says that, "Desire is a virtue as rare as honesty and as commendable as perseverance. Always have that desire to work towards, because without knowing what will make you happy, there can be no true joy in life."

Dan and Brian's Joint Speech

"In 50 years, when I (Dan) am old... I hope to look back on the day of graduation with pride, admiration and honor...I (Brian) believe Wachusett offered the best experience and is a school we are all proud of and can be thankful for."

FOOTPRINTS ON OUR LIVES

Footprints on the Field

Wachusett's sports teams excelled this year since they were bigger, faster and stronger than their opponents. Despite wins and losses, the teams displayed great team spirit and represented our school with pride. Dedicated fans attended all the games, matches and meets to show support to the players. Who will forget the infamous Badlands or the Mountaineer Pep Band? Not only are the fans left with footprints, but the players will also remember working on a team with friends and how sports shaped their lives at Wachusett.

Girls just wanna have fun:

Girls Soccer

As another great season for the Girls Varsity Soccer team came to a close, the girls all came away with enthusiastic, upbeat attitudes. "From a Halloween scavenger hunt, to beating SPM at Homecoming, to dinner at the Wong, we worked hard, and had a great time," said captain Mica Bayard. According to captain Jill Orciuch, "...we set some of our own standards and whooeeey did we have fun."

Every player put in their all, and as a result, they won the Sportmanship Award. As captain Mary Kate Cunningham said, "WRHS Girls Varsity Soccer isn't just a sport - it's a way of life." They will never forget when Mike sang to them, N.C. sprints, or Laurie Bernier's punch. More than anything, however, the team will not forget their hard work throughout this season.

Scoring some goals:

Boys Soccer

Who could forget the first goal against Milford or the final game against Marlboro? The amazing homecoming speeches summed it all up. As captain Billy Long says, "It wasn't the talent. It wasn't the coaching. It wasn't the desire...we just lost our mojo." Captain Rob Little says, "We had a great year in taking the younger players and developing them into Varsity players and I am happy with that." The team worked hard and captain Ben Getchell was "happy with the way we presented ourselves on the field."

The team made a tremendous amount of effort this season. They learned to work as a whole and started a streak of winning and tying games. The team enjoyed the Alumni game even though it was freezing. The team exhibited their full potential in both wins against Milford. Throughout the season, the team kept their spirits high and continued to work hard. As Winston Churchill once said, "Never, never, never quit."

Nobody runs faster:

Girls X-Country

Having fun, bonding, beating Shrewsbury, and winning the districts were the goals that the Girls Cross Country team wanted to accomplish. They seemed to do it without any problems.

Captains Liz Banks and Nikki Leger were eager to comment on the season, "It was an enormous growing season. The team grew not only in ability but also we grew together as friends."

The undefeated season was filled with many laughs. The girls were spooked in the woods by a creepy guy, they all fell in the mud during a workout, and Nikki's sleepover created lifelong memories.

The girls' greatest accomplishment were beating Shrewsbury, and when Nikki and Liz found five dollars.

It is just the yearbook staff, or does the cross country team seem to get better and better every year? They won everything from the dual meets to the State Championship. As captain Dan Sullivan says, "It was an amazing season with the best cross country team Wachusett has ever had."

The team had many memorable moments from both practice and outside of school. Hanging out at friends' houses, and the occasional rendez-vous with the girls cross country team, made the season a blast.

The competition grew within the team as the athletes grew bigger, faster, and stronger. "Look left, look right; not today Oliver Ames," says Dan Sullivan about another team.

Even though the team was plagued by numerous injuries during the season, the boys overcame them like the champions that they are and went the distance.

Sticking Around:

Girls Field Hockey

This year's field hockey season was one of the best in the history of the sport at Wachusett. "This season was definitely the best. We had strong skills, dedicated players and a positive attitude," says senior captain Katelyn Rooney.

From the daily practice routine of running Kendall Road, to the victory against Fitchburg, to scoring against Leominster in the last minute to tie the game, the team had many memorable moments.

The team had many goals this season that needed to be accomplished. Among them were having fun and being successful. Another goal of the team was to grow closer together. "This season we have created strong bonds that allowed us to be a power house in the league," said captain Meg Dunphy. According to the team, these goals were definitely accomplished.

Overall, Jen Schnare believes "This season was a fun, memorable one that I won't forget! We had a great team and we're all good friends."

The boys golf team had some wins and some loses this year. "Although we had some 'adviseriliation' at some points, the overall season was successful," according to Dan Thorp. "It was rich with entertainment."

The two captians of golf this year were Brian Nelson and Dan Thorp. Nelson quotes the season as "a season of good times and good snipes." Thorp described the season as "...quite successful and it meant the world to me. ... no ... the universe."

The golf team had many memorable moments together. They went to the Distict Tournament and the State Championship. One of the most memorable moments was when Dan and Brian made their Homecoming speech. Brian translated their goals for the season as Dan shouted them out in jibbirish.

The overall impression of the season, in the words of captain Dan Thorp is "... a bunch of hunky guys playing a mean game of golf."

Girls Cheerleading

This year's Varsity Cheerleading team may not have made it all the way, but as captain Heather Brunell says, "This year was awesome, and though we had some rough times, I think we gave it our all and did what we could." The girls cheered at every football game, from sun to snow, they were always there. From the cookout at the coach's lake house, to the bus rides to and from the games, they enjoyed every minute of it.

After even the first few games, the cheerleaders had faith that this would be one of the best seasons ever. When it happened, they showed their spirit with extra loud cheering and support for the team. Along with the band, the cheerleaders kept the audience roaring and the players playing. The girls always seem to have energy, and as captain Joanna Holmes says, "The girls always give 110%, and that's what really makes them awesome."

Football

Despite obstacles, such as a snowstorm before the big Thanksgiving game, the team had an incredible season. Their final record was 8-3. "I think we worked really hard in the off-season and during BFS (Bigger, Faster, Stronger program), which really payed off for a great season," said captain Dustin Hill.

The team had many great moments including the Andover game, and the Oakmont game. At the Andover game, the entire team was "pumped up" to play, and ended up winning 10-7. This year was also the first year that Wachusett beat the Oakmont High football team.

Along with great team spirit, the Varsity football team was supported by many fellow students. At all homegames, the WRHS Pep Band was there cheering the team on, along with stands that were full of very devoted fans.

Girls Volleyball

The girls volleyball team not only had a successful season on the court but off the court as well. The team worked hard for the community by having a team raking party. The girls also had a chance to watch the Holy Cross volleyball team in action, and after the game, ask the players questions. The team also bonded during potluck dinners at captain Lauren Sutherland's house.

On the court, there were many memorable moments. After losing to Leominster the first time, the girls wanted to beat them in the second match. They did! Captain Caitlin Hendrickson said "Showing up Leominster, and catching them off guard was a big deal. It was a big game. We needed to beat them to get into districts."

The goals of the team for the season were to come together as a team, stay together, and to get into districts. By raking together, hanging out together, and working hard on drills during practices, all these goals were accomplished.

Wrestling

Even though there were only six people on the wrestling team this season, they fought extremely hard in every match. Though the stat's don't show it, there were many good matches between the Wachusett wrestlers and opponents.

The wrestling team, being aware of a practice space crunch, had many practices in the new modular cafeteria. They would roll back the tables and roll out the mats.

With the leadership of the captain Dave Burroughs, the team wrestled the best they could. Dave was a solid leader who kept the team in line, and on track during all practice times and meets. It may surprise many to know that Dave is only a sophomore.

Through the many difficulties the team faced this year, they came through a smarter, better, and closer team.

Gymnastics

Although they were a small group of girls, they were a good group of gymnasts. Everyday, fighting for a spot to practice, the girls would drag out the equipment; things like parallel bars and the balance beam being the biggest. Then, after a short practice, the girls would load the equipment back into the closet. This shows the dedication that our gymnastics team has!

Even though the girls did not win a meet, they improved each time they competed. They certainly improved their scores against Shrewsbury and Algonquin. In the case of girls gymnastics, winning is not the measure of success, however, personal victories and trying your best are all that the girls count as important.

This year's boys indoor track team fought hard the entire season. They had no choice because the team had numerous injuries and sickness throughout the season, that benched the main point scorers. However, the boys pulled through and had a great season filled with many key victories.

St. John's and Wachusett have always had a rivalry in sports such as basketball and soccer, and the same is true for indoor track. This year Wachusett stepped up and beat St. John's in a dual meet. "Beating St. John's was our main goal this season, and it was accomplished," says captain Dan Sullivan. Another main win for the boys was Leagues. They beat out teams like Shrewsbury and Fitchburg to be able to call themselves League Champs.

Off the track, the boys had fun as well. From coed bus rides, to Alex Pangiotitus actually coming to practice, it was a season for not only key victories, but also lots of laughs.

Below: Caitlin Shooshan waits down in blocks in anticipation of the gun!

Girls Track

With one of the toughest seasons behind them, the girls indoor track team came away with the League and District title. The girls' biggest challenge were the meets against Algonquin, and although Wachusett lost the dual meet, the girls came charging back to beat Algonquin in the League and District meets.

Even with all the successes, the team had one of the most social group of girls. This fact is indicated by senior captain Nikki Leger, "We go out, have fun and laugh, and maybe run a bit." There were many pasta parties, sledding adventures, and even an awesome sleepover at the Shooshan's after states.

All of these successes not only came from hard work and dedication at practices, but also the three captains, Nikki Leger, Liz Banks, and Carolyn Longden. These senior girls worked hard to make the season a blast from beginning to end. The team also had an affect on the captains and as Carolyn Longden puts it "Our girls are definately throw your hands in the air, and scream 'Holy Shucks' great!"

Boys Basketball

This year's Varsity Boys Basketball team had one of the most successful seasons in quite a few years. They beat Milford for the first time in ten years, were the League Champs, and made it to the second round of the District Championship. Then, to add to it all, Senior captain Brian Nelson scored his 1,000th point and more. With many big wins, and a few close losses, the boys worked hard, and proved they could do it. With so many great games, it was no doubt they would take the league title.

Along with the teamwork during the game, the boys got along off the court too. As senior Billy Long put it, "We're like brothers...or at least stepbrothers that is."

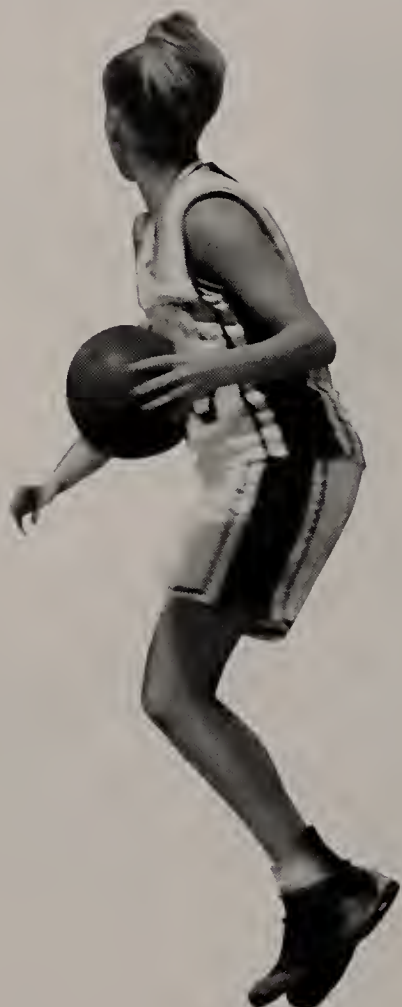

Along with the boys, traveling to every game were their dedicated fans, including "The Badlands", and the cheerleaders, who Senior captain Brian Nelson notably thanked at the sports awards.

Though the season ended in a close loss, the team and coaches were proud of how far they made it.

Girls Basketball

"It was drive, a lot of heart and an incredible team sprit that brought us to where we were." The great aspects of the girls basketball team as described above by captain Jen Schnare led the girls to a 19-3 overall record and a league championship. Not only did the girls win the league title, but also for the first time in 7 years, Wachuset came out victorious against Brockton. Winning this game showed the girls their work was paying off.

The season was also filled with many nail-biter games. The Holy Name, Leominster, and Marlboro games were all won or lost by one or two points.

From bus rides, to all nighters at Lisa Chartier's, the girls had an incredible season off the court as well. Our beautiful girls even caused a car accident!

Captain Lisa Chartier sums up the season in one final quote, "It is good to have an end to the journey; but it is the journey that matters, in the end."

Ice Hockey

For this season's ice hockey team, making the playoffs was their biggest goal. This goal was accomplished by the team, and made the season even more exciting.

The team took a trip to Salem, MA for a tournament, and stayed together in a hotel. The team also beat many tough competitors, such as Gardner and Marlboro. These were really big wins for the ice hockey team. Even with mighty Littleton fans up in Wachusett's faces, our team stayed strong and focused, and won the game.

Along with the cheerleaders, fans, and parents, a strong attitude displayed by captains Nate Bostic and Evan DeMarco helped make it a successful season. For captain Evan DeMarco the attitude of the team is best summarized by an anonymous quote, "Winners see what they want to happen, losers see what they want to avoid."

Hockey Cheerleading

This season's hockey cheerleading team had to be one of the most supportive group of fans the Hockey team has ever had. From the huge signs they had around the school, to the many cheers they learned throughout the season, they kept the hockey team going strong. As captain Leah Sundin said, "We definitely worked hard, and it was a blast!" One of the biggest goals of the season was to learn as many cheers as possible, and by learning over 75 cheers, the girls accomplished this.

One of the best cheers that the girls learned this season was the "Blade" cheer.

The girls were also inspired this season when the boys hockey coach brought a cute Harvard hockey player to a game! The entire team loved him!

The girls did an excellent job this season and have come so far and accomplished so much in the eyes of captain Sandra Hussey.

Swimming

Captain Christine DeForgesays, "The swim team is a perfect example of a high school varsity sport that requires a huge amount of work, but yields just as many—if not more—fun and memorable experiences." Some of these memorable moments include, teammate Kim Trutor bringing her guitar on a long bus ride, and Coach Farley's pizza party!

When it came down to business, this season's team got it done. The main goal for the season was to improve on last year's record, and this goal was accomplished. Another goal was to send more than 10 swimmers to districts. This goal was also achieved.

When you get right down to it, captain Katie Costello can sum up the season and the team. "Our team was so close, we were like one big family. We were a unique and for lack of a better word, goofy bunch, who knew how to have a good time and we were always cheering on our teammates."

Basketball Cheerleading

Though the Cheerleading team had two major injuries, they still came out with a district championship. As captain Heather Brunell said, "We knew what we had to do, we did it, and we won." Throughout the season, the girls had many laughs, and tons of fun. From practices to bus rides, they were always laughing at something, or someone.

During the season the girls worked hard to overcome the injuries, and did the best they could with such a small squad.

They cheered for the boys at every game, and competed in many competitions. They showed their support with cheers and stunts, and invoved the crowd as much as they could. "We love it when the crowd cheers with us. It shows us that they actually know we're there," said junior Laura Gargolinski.

As the season came to an end, the girls were sad to know it was almost over, but proud to know how much they had accomplished. As said by the team, "In the end it was definitely worth it!"

Boys Track

This year's boys track team held their own through thick and thin. With a lot of rain, and some injuries, the team stayed strong and kept going hard.

With leadership from the captains, Dan Sullivan, Dan Frechette, and Greg Schrank, the team had a fun filled season with lots of laughs.

With events like the long jump, discus, and high jump added, the spring brings a new excitement to the track meets and practices. More people enjoy watching in the nicer weather, and make the meets more upbeat. The track team enjoys the support they get from parents and friends, and say it helps them to keep going hard.

Having many goals this season, the team worked hard to fulfill as many as they could, practicing everyday, rain or shine. As captain Dan Sullivan says, "We need to get to a place called practice."

First Across the Finish Line:

Girls Track

"Run with your heart." This year's Girls spring track team was determined to live by this. They practiced and trained hard, and nothing would get in their way. They knew what they wanted to do, and knew how they needed to do it.

With one of the largest teams in the history of the sport, it would seem like the team wouldn't be close. However with the help of all the senior captains the girls had a very close group.

Together, the team made up a cheer, ran together in a snow-covered track and even went swimming!

With goals like beating Algonquin, winning districts, leagues and attempting to win states, the girls had their work cut out for them. But by sticking together and helping each other the girls accomplished more than winning a few meets--they became a team of friends.

Boys Lacrosse

This year's boys lacrosse team worked hard till the end this season. With a few key victories, the boys were tough competition for many teams.

Working hard was not the only thing on the mind of this team though, even with hrs to long practices in the rain, there was always a laugh involved. From Coach J and his "Chowdahead" remarks, to just having fun, there was never a quiet moment on the field.

The team, led by captains Mike Faucher, Greg Meyer, and Bobby Hatstat, worked their way up to the top never forgetting what it was all about, having fun. The team not only played together, but they became closer as a group, becoming friends with many of those they never expected they would.

Overall, the season and the team was very successful, and a whole lot of fun.

"Hakuna Matata.", it means no worries, and our girls lacrosse team uses it as their motto. They have no worries, because all they want to do is have fun and play lacrosse.

The 2003 season is filled with many memorable moments including ice cream before practice, or those long bus rides where the girls even recieved some toots from truck drivers on the road.

Working hard is also important to the girls. Even with the rain, the girls still had thier 2 hour practices. Though at the time some of them werent too happy, int the end they knew it definately paid off.

Goals for this season were simple. The girls wanted to stay healthy before games, win half of their games, and have fun! With the help of senior captains Maureen Ruane and Jill Orciuch, these goals were accomplished with hesita-tion.

Baseball

All the hard work selling raffle tickets, and having multiple fundraisers paid off. This year's baseball team raised enough money to fix the field for the 2003 Spring season.

In the beginning, because of the weather, it didn't look like the boys would be allowed to play on their new field, but eventually the rain held back, and the Wachusett baseball team started their season.

With a multitude of returning players, the team was very excited about the season. Incredible pitching and batting allowed the team to come away with a great record. The team trained in the off season, getting ready for what they knew would be a tough season. But by working hard, they won what they could, and came out a bigger and better team in the end.

This year's softball season may have started off rough, but once the girls started to have fun and realize why they were out there, they showed their fans what they could do. One of their goals of the season was to beat milford, knowing they could do it, they set out and played hard, granting themselves the victory and a goal accomplished.

Another goal of the season was to have fun, and these girls sure did that.

With tie-dye pizza parties, "Hooches", and truck rides up to the field, this season was one filled with laughs.

One of their most memorable games was the one where they beat Doherty, coming back from a 5-0 loss at the beginning of the season.

Led by captains, Meg LaFlamme, Shannon Graham, and Rachael Barry, they add just one more thing, "What do we call coach?"

Boys Tennis

This years boys tennis team showed their enthusiasm for the sport by working hard to win, win, win. Without any seniors on the team this year, the boys knew that there would be some tough competition. With this at hand, the boys worked extra hard to stand up to the older teams. With a final record of 7-7, the team showed that they could stand up to the pressure of he competitive teams. With a few key vicories, the boys attitude was optimistic as they finished a most successful season on the courts.

Working hard on the court didn't have to mean working hard all the time for this team. Once off the court, these boys kept their spirits up, and made the season more than just about wnning, but about having fun.

Girls Tennis

Despite the weather delays in the beginning of the season, the Girl's tennis team made it through. With hard practices, and some key wins, the girls had an awesome season.

Tennis consists of both singles and doubles matches, and Wachusett excels in both areas of the game. In the singles, Wachusett sent senior captain Kelly Fraser to the individual states. It was an exciting time for this up and coming tennis star.

The girls, sporting their new white uniforms, practiced hard even through some of the rainy days.

Starting their season late, making for many make-ups, and multiple matches each week, the girls didn't give up. They knew what it would take to win, and that's what they wanted to do. They formed a bond between themselves, and took on the opponents with a fearless attitude, knowing they could come out on top.

Girls Golf

This years girls golf team ended their season with a great record. Only losing a few matches, the girls worked hard to beat all of their opponents. This record allowed the girls to take six members of their team to the state tournament and three to the individuals. Placing 7th at states, the girls knew all the hard work, and playing in the rain had paid off.

With fun times and laughs in the van to and from matches, the girls always had a blast. With help from "Sparky", and up to 4 matches each week, the girls got better, as did their scores. By beating every team atleast once, the girls acomplished their goals and went all the way.

With seven seniors on the team, their was alot of previous experience which helped the team be successful in many of their matches. This was a team you didn't want to mess with.

Time has passed so quickly since the days when your favorite words were "oh-oh-dan du," to now where they are, "I need the car." You have been blessed with many talents, and I know with your intense strong will and determination, you will use them to become successful in all that you do. You have worked very hard and excelled in more ways and have accomplished more than you realize. I am so very proud of you!! I have enjoyed watching you grow into a beautiful young woman, and I will always love you and be there for you as your friend and mother. God bless you, keep your head high and your will strong! This world is in need of people like you. I love you!

Mom

Lisa, how quickly you've become an incredibly beautiful and talented young woman! It seems like just yesterday I was pushing you on the buoy swing in the backyard, you were learning to swim with a bubble on your back, and I was admiring your rosy red cheeks as you persistently trudged through the deep snow with your older siblings. Life moves very quickly so seize the moment, find joy in the small things, and capture the fond memories along the way. You've certainly given me lots of great memories for which I am both fortunate and thankful. Your energy, enthusiasm, creativity, and sense of humor do not go unnoticed. You're special and I am very proud of you...for being a kind, caring person, for using and sharing the gifts with which you've been blessed, and for all that you've accomplished. I hope you will remember the good times and take the positive memories with you to the next phase of your journey. Move in a direction that will make you happy, set goals, and pursue them with a passion. Let YOUR values be the guide in making wise choices and decisions. Don't make yourself crazy...not everything has to be a competition wherein you feel the need to be the best, or perfect (don't we share this one!) Work hard but have fun...smile often and celebrate progress as well as results. Be patient, and find comfort in knowing that a series of singles and doubles can SANELY get you to your goals...home runs are rare and often overrated. Keep God in your life at all times. I'll miss you lots, and I'm here for you as needed...you'll always be my youngest.

Love, Dad

Well there chief, hard to believe but you are actually growin up. Time kinda flew by with me being gone for a while. I am proud of all the things I have heard about you though. Believe it or not I brag to people about my "little" sister and how nasty she is at sports and in school. You showed Holden what Chartier blood is made of, I just hope the attitude doesn't short you of your absolute potential. Attitude is a good thing if used the right way :). My "little buddy" isn't so little anymore and I wish you good luck with your future plans. Don't let the big world outside of Templeton control you, control it! I love you and you know you can always have the coolest big brother around to talk to. Awesome job Lee, and please be safe.

Jeff

To the best little sis ever: I couldn't have asked for a better childhood companion and I couldn't be more proud and honored to know the friend and successful kid you've grown up to be. Not only have you been right behind me supporting me in all my endeavors, but you have followed and surpassed every expectation everyone has had for you in your moments despite the challenges. You have learned many lessons in your hard times and used these to mature and become an awesome person. Most of all, you are one of the most fun people I know and I love sharing any crazy moment I can with you- I'm so proud of you and can't wait to be a part of your next step cause it only gets better so keep your head up always!! Colophon

The Mountaineer is an annual publication by the Yearbook staff at Wachusett Regional High School, 1401 Main Street, Holden, Massachusetts 01520. The towns served by the high school are Holden, Paxton, Princeton, Rutland, and Sterling. The book was distributed to the class of 2003 at a class social held in mid August.

The book was printed in Winston-Salem, North Carolina at the Jostens Publishing Division. The press run was 500 copies. The cover was designed for our staff by Rick Brooks of the Creative Resources Department of Jostens. Additional art for the book was created by Marylee Helms and Melissa Bagwell of the Creative Resources Department of Jostens.

Our cover is a school-designed Truelife Combo lithograph. The litho-process cover has a special Ultra Matte lamination for protection and spot UV coating for artistic effects. The trim size is 8.5 by 11 and Smythe-sewn. It is wrapped around 120-point binder's board. The school follows the Accent Program. The front and back endsheets are #300 Bluestone Contempore.

The paper used throughout the book is 80 pound gloss, printed with standard black ink. Thirty-two pages were printed using the standard four color process. The font used as the major type style is Palatino. Other assorted type fonts were used at the discretion of the page editor.

A current events supplement, World Beat (produced by Jostens) has been sewn in at the end of the book after page 304.

Senior portraits were taken by Wayne Myers and his associates of Myers Studio, Sterling, MA, the designated official yearbook photographer. (Other professional photographers did some of the senior portraits.) Athletics (both team and candid), clubs organizations, faculty, and major school events were photographed at no charge to the yearbook by Myers Studio. The studio also generously provided the yearbook staff with film, developing, and equipment at no additional cost. Additional athletic, event and candid photographs were taken by members of the yearbook photography staff as well as donated by various members of the class of 2003, and their advisors. O'Connor School Portraits photographed the underclassmen for student ID's and made these photos available to the yearbook staff at no cost.

The approximate cost of printing the book is $42,000. This figure includes publishing costs, freight charges, shipment of materials to North Carolina, color candid photography expenses (purchase of film and developing costs), and other supplies. The per copy cost to the public is $65.00 plus tax. Monies are raised through an assessment to the Senior Class per student, a parent ad and patron/sponsor solicitation campaign, and the proceeds from two soda machines in the gym corridor. These 304 pages are representative of the entire Wachusett student body and their community.

Special Thanks!!!!

In my final year as advisor to the Mountaineer I write this thank you with bitter sweet feelings. Although I am looking forward to a little rest, I will miss the rewards that working with so many fine students and adults has given me through creating this publication. It gives me great pleasure to be able to acknowledge a number of very special people who have made these seven years easier and more enjoyable than I would have thought possible.

First, I thank my husband for his understanding and support of my many hours away from home as well as my parents who fed me nearly every "yearbook night." In addition, I thank my friends: Maura for her dedication and humor even years after giving up an official position with the staff; and Donna for her expertise with the finances, parent ads, phone calls and budgets. Without those of you closest to me this job would have been impossible.

To a group who put in as many hours as I did, special thanks to Wayne and Bev Myers as well as Jen LeBoef of Myers Studio for their time and commitment. Wayne and his staff have treated me and my staffs with generosity, professionalism and energy over these past few years. They could be counted on for professional and prompt production of the essential photographs needed throughout the book, spending their evenings and weekends at sports banquets, proms, graduation, and the numerous extracurricular activities held throughout the year. It is my hope that the senior classes will continue to support Myers Studio. It is their commitment that enables us to produce a fine quality book of which both the staff and the Wachusett community can be proud.

A gracious thank you to Arnie Lohmann, our company representative from Jostens Publishing. In addition to technical and artistic support, Arnie is a strong moral support for our entire staff. Arnie, you were a huge asset in taking on this project. Your kindness and skill made the transitions easy, and I know you will be as big a help to our new advisors. Also from Jostens, we thank Rick Brooks, from the Creative Resources Department, for his creation of the cover design. His wit, humor, and patience has always turned our chaos into masterpieces.

Additional thanks go out to the many Wachusett staff members who help all year behind the scenes. First, we thank Ed McTigue for all his technical support, patience and persistence in helping with our many computer issues. Secondly, we thank the Special Ed. Department and their student workers for their constant attention to our soda machines, a major fund raiser for the book. In addition, we thank Amy Kathman, Della Ritland, Donna Laramée, and Ginny Belcher for helping us with class, staff and club lists, school activity schedules, and Guidance News articles. Huge thanks, also, to the many staff members who donated photos used throughout the sports, academic and events sections (most of which we had permission for--sorry Brady 8--). And thanks to Nancy Dileo for her patience and generosity in sharing her classroom time and space.

MY STAFF!!!! Yours is the hardest good-bye to say. I will miss the opportunity to work with young people like you. It is what makes it all worth while. This year's Editor-in-Chief, Liz Scales, has helped just about every staff member in one way or another to meet their deadlines, proof their pages, or give a cheer for a job well done. You are a very special type of leader indeed. My next thanks goes to Katie whose hard work and great sense of humor created a superb academics section as well as a joyful tone to sometimes endless meetings. To Beeta and Heather: Great Job! I hardly ever knew you were struggling with deadlines or copy--perhaps you never were. You made a difficult section look easy this year. Thank you Amanda, for making sense out of the chaos at each meeting with your organization, notes, and ability to tackle problems faced in each section. To Jenna and Kara, your organizational skills were terrific, thanks Jenna for all the extra hours you put in helping in different areas of the publication as well. Kudos to Jackie and Brittany who, although I was always concerned about your deadlines, had the fewest corrections to be made come proof time - but hey - what happened to Graduation?? As usual, photography got the short end of the stick toward the end of the year, but thanks Kait for your perseverance to the bitter end. In addition, thanks to Jill for all your work with last minute emergencies and Somer for organizing the troops. And Cyndi, my last senior editor, thanks not only for your work on the clubs section, but also for your helping hand in the sections that came before yours. To my underclassmen editors, Sarah and Amy, you made it through the worst - all those little pictures - I will expect great things from you next year. (And I will have to come back, at least to tease Sarah just a little bit.) Also Juniors, Danielle and Katie, I thank you for picking up a ball nobody wanted. Excellent and meticulous job! A final extra special thanks to Claire, our only Freshman on the staff. You never ceased to surprise me with your willingness to jump right in. If you keep this up, you'll be running the show in another few years. It is all of you that make it hard to pass on the torch. I only hope that Ms. Piccione and Ms. Lee find as many gratifying memories among the sweat as I have. Thank You Wachusett for giving me the opportunity to serve you through this publication.

To the class of 2003, please know that without the hard work of the people mentioned above as well as the additional staff mentioned on pages 156-157 this yearbook would not be in your hands right now. Please give them thanks. Years from now you will realize what all their sacrificed weekends, vacations, sleep, study halls and social lives meant. Enjoy your memories!!!

Thanks for everything,
Lynn M. Leschke, Mountaineer Advisor

The year has passed with a beat of the heart leaving each person with another year's worth of memories. The sports teams played strong and succeeded in every season. Student life activities were more fun than ever which was indicated by the student body turnout. The underclassmen have rose a level within in the school, becoming the upperclassmen of the building. Field trips to various locations were provided by the faculty and enjoyed by the students. The seniors are off to live their lives, some to college, some to work, and some to where ever their lives may lead them. Throughout it all, there were teachers, students and experiences that left footprints on our lives that will be remembered always.
